12 September - Adam Brand: will speak on Graphology.

Handwriting analysis is used by: companies selecting employees; solicitors who need signatures to be verified; agencies organising corporate events; exhibitors wanting to attract visitors to their stands; biographers and genealogists wanting to understand the people about whom they are researching; individuals considering partnerships. The past Chairman of the British Institute of Graphologists, Adam Brand is a handwriting expert who has experience in all the above areas and has worked for a range of solicitors and companies such as Pricewaterhouse Coopers, Warner Brothers and Ford. He is a regular speaker on handwriting topics and has media experience with BBC1 Breakfast News, BBC 2, BBC 3, ITV3, Sky News, ITV News Central, BBC World Service and local radio stations.

10 October – Philippa Radford–Hancock: British Red Cross

The presentation covers the work the British Red Cross does internationally and here in the UK, and explores how that work began and how it has diversified. You can also find out about the range of services the British Red Cross provides on the website here

<http://www.redcross.org.uk/What-we-do>

Generally speaking the presentation provided covers:

- History of the Red Cross
- An overview of services during the World Wars
- Principles of the organisation
- Examples of local and international work
- How we fund our work

With such a wide range of services and support offered in the UK alone, and a long history of offering support to people in crisis there is usually something to interest everyone who attends. If there are particular aspects of the work that are of interest to your group, I can incorporate these where possible.

14 November - no speaker: AGM

12 December - star appeal speaker to be confirmed.
